Northstar Labs

Employee Handbook

EMPLOYEE_HANDBOOK-01 - Annual paid sick leave

Fictional demonstration knowledge base. Version 1.0. This policy applies to employees and the Atlas product only where explicitly stated.

Annual paid sick leave: 10 working days per calendar year.

This section defines the rule for annual paid sick leave. Employees should use this published rule when planning the activity described in this section. The policy owner is responsible for keeping the approved wording current. A request that falls outside the scope of this rule must be referred to the policy owner rather than interpreted as an automatic exception.

Operational process: read the applicable section before submitting a request. Describe the business purpose, attach the supporting information, and route the request through the approved internal workflow. The reviewer checks whether the request is complete and whether it falls within the published policy. Keep the approval with the request so that the decision can be audited later.

The procedural notes describe administration of this section. They do not create additional benefits, prices, service commitments, or technical limits. Different policies can use similar terminology while governing different activities. A rule from another document should not be substituted for this section without an explicit cross-reference. Employee-specific records, forecasts, future policy revisions and confidential credentials are outside the scope of this demonstration knowledge base.

Northstar Labs

Employee Handbook

EMPLOYEE_HANDBOOK-02 - Annual vacation allowance

Fictional demonstration knowledge base. Version 1.0. This policy applies to employees and the Atlas product only where explicitly stated.

Annual vacation allowance: 20 working days per calendar year.

This section defines the rule for annual vacation allowance. Employees should use this published rule when planning the activity described in this section. The policy owner is responsible for keeping the approved wording current. A request that falls outside the scope of this rule must be referred to the policy owner rather than interpreted as an automatic exception.

Operational process: read the applicable section before submitting a request. Describe the business purpose, attach the supporting information, and route the request through the approved internal workflow. The reviewer checks whether the request is complete and whether it falls within the published policy. Keep the approval with the request so that the decision can be audited later.

The procedural notes describe administration of this section. They do not create additional benefits, prices, service commitments, or technical limits. Different policies can use similar terminology while governing different activities. A rule from another document should not be substituted for this section without an explicit cross-reference. Employee-specific records, forecasts, future policy revisions and confidential credentials are outside the scope of this demonstration knowledge base.

Northstar Labs

Employee Handbook

EMPLOYEE_HANDBOOK-03 - Vacation carryover limit

Fictional demonstration knowledge base. Version 1.0. This policy applies to employees and the Atlas product only where explicitly stated.

Vacation carryover limit: 5 working days.

This section defines the rule for vacation carryover limit. Employees should use this published rule when planning the activity described in this section. The policy owner is responsible for keeping the approved wording current. A request that falls outside the scope of this rule must be referred to the policy owner rather than interpreted as an automatic exception.

Operational process: read the applicable section before submitting a request. Describe the business purpose, attach the supporting information, and route the request through the approved internal workflow. The reviewer checks whether the request is complete and whether it falls within the published policy. Keep the approval with the request so that the decision can be audited later.

The procedural notes describe administration of this section. They do not create additional benefits, prices, service commitments, or technical limits. Different policies can use similar terminology while governing different activities. A rule from another document should not be substituted for this section without an explicit cross-reference. Employee-specific records, forecasts, future policy revisions and confidential credentials are outside the scope of this demonstration knowledge base.

Northstar Labs

Employee Handbook

EMPLOYEE_HANDBOOK-04 - Carried vacation expiry

Fictional demonstration knowledge base. Version 1.0. This policy applies to employees and the Atlas product only where explicitly stated.

Carried vacation expiry: March 31.

This section defines the rule for carried vacation expiry. Employees should use this published rule when planning the activity described in this section. The policy owner is responsible for keeping the approved wording current. A request that falls outside the scope of this rule must be referred to the policy owner rather than interpreted as an automatic exception.

Operational process: read the applicable section before submitting a request. Describe the business purpose, attach the supporting information, and route the request through the approved internal workflow. The reviewer checks whether the request is complete and whether it falls within the published policy. Keep the approval with the request so that the decision can be audited later.

The procedural notes describe administration of this section. They do not create additional benefits, prices, service commitments, or technical limits. Different policies can use similar terminology while governing different activities. A rule from another document should not be substituted for this section without an explicit cross-reference. Employee-specific records, forecasts, future policy revisions and confidential credentials are outside the scope of this demonstration knowledge base.

Northstar Labs

Employee Handbook

EMPLOYEE_HANDBOOK-05 - New employee probation period

Fictional demonstration knowledge base. Version 1.0. This policy applies to employees and the Atlas product only where explicitly stated.

New employee probation period: 90 calendar days.

This section defines the rule for new employee probation period. Employees should use this published rule when planning the activity described in this section. The policy owner is responsible for keeping the approved wording current. A request that falls outside the scope of this rule must be referred to the policy owner rather than interpreted as an automatic exception.

Operational process: read the applicable section before submitting a request. Describe the business purpose, attach the supporting information, and route the request through the approved internal workflow. The reviewer checks whether the request is complete and whether it falls within the published policy. Keep the approval with the request so that the decision can be audited later.

The procedural notes describe administration of this section. They do not create additional benefits, prices, service commitments, or technical limits. Different policies can use similar terminology while governing different activities. A rule from another document should not be substituted for this section without an explicit cross-reference. Employee-specific records, forecasts, future policy revisions and confidential credentials are outside the scope of this demonstration knowledge base.

Northstar Labs

Employee Handbook

EMPLOYEE_HANDBOOK-06 - Employer retirement contribution

Fictional demonstration knowledge base. Version 1.0. This policy applies to employees and the Atlas product only where explicitly stated.

Employer retirement contribution: 4 percent of base salary.

This section defines the rule for employer retirement contribution. Employees should use this published rule when planning the activity described in this section. The policy owner is responsible for keeping the approved wording current. A request that falls outside the scope of this rule must be referred to the policy owner rather than interpreted as an automatic exception.

Operational process: read the applicable section before submitting a request. Describe the business purpose, attach the supporting information, and route the request through the approved internal workflow. The reviewer checks whether the request is complete and whether it falls within the published policy. Keep the approval with the request so that the decision can be audited later.

The procedural notes describe administration of this section. They do not create additional benefits, prices, service commitments, or technical limits. Different policies can use similar terminology while governing different activities. A rule from another document should not be substituted for this section without an explicit cross-reference. Employee-specific records, forecasts, future policy revisions and confidential credentials are outside the scope of this demonstration knowledge base.

Northstar Labs

Employee Handbook

EMPLOYEE_HANDBOOK-07 - Annual professional learning budget

Fictional demonstration knowledge base. Version 1.0. This policy applies to employees and the Atlas product only where explicitly stated.

Annual professional learning budget: USD 750 per employee.

This section defines the rule for annual professional learning budget. Employees should use this published rule when planning the activity described in this section. The policy owner is responsible for keeping the approved wording current. A request that falls outside the scope of this rule must be referred to the policy owner rather than interpreted as an automatic exception.

Operational process: read the applicable section before submitting a request. Describe the business purpose, attach the supporting information, and route the request through the approved internal workflow. The reviewer checks whether the request is complete and whether it falls within the published policy. Keep the approval with the request so that the decision can be audited later.

The procedural notes describe administration of this section. They do not create additional benefits, prices, service commitments, or technical limits. Different policies can use similar terminology while governing different activities. A rule from another document should not be substituted for this section without an explicit cross-reference. Employee-specific records, forecasts, future policy revisions and confidential credentials are outside the scope of this demonstration knowledge base.

Northstar Labs

Employee Handbook

EMPLOYEE_HANDBOOK-08 - Annual performance review month

Fictional demonstration knowledge base. Version 1.0. This policy applies to employees and the Atlas product only where explicitly stated.

Annual performance review month: November.

This section defines the rule for annual performance review month. Employees should use this published rule when planning the activity described in this section. The policy owner is responsible for keeping the approved wording current. A request that falls outside the scope of this rule must be referred to the policy owner rather than interpreted as an automatic exception.

Operational process: read the applicable section before submitting a request. Describe the business purpose, attach the supporting information, and route the request through the approved internal workflow. The reviewer checks whether the request is complete and whether it falls within the published policy. Keep the approval with the request so that the decision can be audited later.

The procedural notes describe administration of this section. They do not create additional benefits, prices, service commitments, or technical limits. Different policies can use similar terminology while governing different activities. A rule from another document should not be substituted for this section without an explicit cross-reference. Employee-specific records, forecasts, future policy revisions and confidential credentials are outside the scope of this demonstration knowledge base.

Northstar Labs

Employee Handbook

EMPLOYEE_HANDBOOK-09 - Standard notice period for resignation

Fictional demonstration knowledge base. Version 1.0. This policy applies to employees and the Atlas product only where explicitly stated.

Standard notice period for resignation: 30 calendar days.

This section defines the rule for standard notice period for resignation. Employees should use this published rule when planning the activity described in this section. The policy owner is responsible for keeping the approved wording current. A request that falls outside the scope of this rule must be referred to the policy owner rather than interpreted as an automatic exception.

Operational process: read the applicable section before submitting a request. Describe the business purpose, attach the supporting information, and route the request through the approved internal workflow. The reviewer checks whether the request is complete and whether it falls within the published policy. Keep the approval with the request so that the decision can be audited later.

The procedural notes describe administration of this section. They do not create additional benefits, prices, service commitments, or technical limits. Different policies can use similar terminology while governing different activities. A rule from another document should not be substituted for this section without an explicit cross-reference. Employee-specific records, forecasts, future policy revisions and confidential credentials are outside the scope of this demonstration knowledge base.

Northstar Labs

Employee Handbook

EMPLOYEE_HANDBOOK-10 - Employee referral reward

Fictional demonstration knowledge base. Version 1.0. This policy applies to employees and the Atlas product only where explicitly stated.

Employee referral reward: USD 600.

This section defines the rule for employee referral reward. Employees should use this published rule when planning the activity described in this section. The policy owner is responsible for keeping the approved wording current. A request that falls outside the scope of this rule must be referred to the policy owner rather than interpreted as an automatic exception.

Operational process: read the applicable section before submitting a request. Describe the business purpose, attach the supporting information, and route the request through the approved internal workflow. The reviewer checks whether the request is complete and whether it falls within the published policy. Keep the approval with the request so that the decision can be audited later.

The procedural notes describe administration of this section. They do not create additional benefits, prices, service commitments, or technical limits. Different policies can use similar terminology while governing different activities. A rule from another document should not be substituted for this section without an explicit cross-reference. Employee-specific records, forecasts, future policy revisions and confidential credentials are outside the scope of this demonstration knowledge base.

Northstar Labs

Employee Handbook

EMPLOYEE_HANDBOOK-11 - Weekly standard working hours

Fictional demonstration knowledge base. Version 1.0. This policy applies to employees and the Atlas product only where explicitly stated.

Weekly standard working hours: 40 hours.

This section defines the rule for weekly standard working hours. Employees should use this published rule when planning the activity described in this section. The policy owner is responsible for keeping the approved wording current. A request that falls outside the scope of this rule must be referred to the policy owner rather than interpreted as an automatic exception.

Operational process: read the applicable section before submitting a request. Describe the business purpose, attach the supporting information, and route the request through the approved internal workflow. The reviewer checks whether the request is complete and whether it falls within the published policy. Keep the approval with the request so that the decision can be audited later.

The procedural notes describe administration of this section. They do not create additional benefits, prices, service commitments, or technical limits. Different policies can use similar terminology while governing different activities. A rule from another document should not be substituted for this section without an explicit cross-reference. Employee-specific records, forecasts, future policy revisions and confidential credentials are outside the scope of this demonstration knowledge base.

Northstar Labs

Employee Handbook

EMPLOYEE_HANDBOOK-12 - Policy exception approver

Fictional demonstration knowledge base. Version 1.0. This policy applies to employees and the Atlas product only where explicitly stated.

Policy exception approver: the Head of People.

This section defines the rule for policy exception approver. Employees should use this published rule when planning the activity described in this section. The policy owner is responsible for keeping the approved wording current. A request that falls outside the scope of this rule must be referred to the policy owner rather than interpreted as an automatic exception.

Operational process: read the applicable section before submitting a request. Describe the business purpose, attach the supporting information, and route the request through the approved internal workflow. The reviewer checks whether the request is complete and whether it falls within the published policy. Keep the approval with the request so that the decision can be audited later.

The procedural notes describe administration of this section. They do not create additional benefits, prices, service commitments, or technical limits. Different policies can use similar terminology while governing different activities. A rule from another document should not be substituted for this section without an explicit cross-reference. Employee-specific records, forecasts, future policy revisions and confidential credentials are outside the scope of this demonstration knowledge base.